

Sometimes it pays to stick to tradition.

When it comes to telecommunications, it doesn't!

At Cohere Communications, we know that using 20th century telecommunications solutions to do 21st century business doesn't work. Founded by financial industry veterans, Cohere knows what your firm needs from its technology providers. That is why our solutions are tried and tested to excel in reliability, security, efficiency and cost effectiveness.

"We have made financial telecommunications our specialty so it doesn't need to be yours!"

Cohere offers enterprises a suite of solutions that are scalable and adaptable. They permit you to minimize on site hardware, employee costs and bureaucratic wrangling. Our support staff integrates itself within your company and is always available to answer your questions, attend to your needs and implement what you require.

Most Importantly, at Cohere Communications, our systems work. And they work all the time. We continuously push the boundaries of what technology can offer. Some of our advanced services include turret support (ARDs), hoot-n-holler and call recording for SoX compliance. In addition, we provide a fully self-healing network fabric—which offers multiple pathways (non-stop services) for your mission critical applications.

At Cohere, we are proud of our track record. We power brokerage firms, private equity firms and direct connections to global trading firms in fourteen countries across four continents.

We know that once you see what's possible within the realms of a 21st century telecommunications solution, you'll wonder why you're not with Cohere.

The integrity of managed solutions